Dear Clay,

I have to take an opportunity to send a formal "Thank You" for the work and professionalism you put in to our project. We have accomplished everything and then-some we were hoping to with the rachelwixey.com website!

Somehow, you made it all so easy. I have addressed website development in the past, and with more than one designer, and as much as I love the opportunity to get creative with marketing, it always became a chore. The suggestions, graphics and initiatives you put into the project, made it so easy to address what we had to do. You have truly captured the essence of who we are, and what we're about. We've received compliments almost daily since we went live, and the common reaction of "it's so positive and what you're all about!" makes me proud of our site!

A company website is, in part, a forum to show the culture and personality of our business. We're excited that ours imparts exactly what people will experience in working with us, and also delivers our message well. I couldn't be more thrilled we found you, and will continue to recommend you and your work. Thank you, Clay!

Kind regards,
